

Burning bales

Pettis County volunteer firemen spent more than two hours Monday night removing these 200 bales of hay from a barn at 614 East Boonville after the hay was set on fire by children smoking in the barn. Sedalia firemen were first called to the blaze about 6:34 p.m.

and were able to contain it until the arrival of county firemen. Although damage was estimated at $400, firemen had to remove all the hay and spread it to extinguish the embers.

Welfare fraud case

Woman is arraigned

The first of three persons charged with welfare fraud in warrants filed Friday by Prosecuting Attorney Mark Kempton was arraigned in Magistrate Court Tuesday morning.

The warrants are the result of a recent investigation into at least 10 county cases of alleged welfare fraud involving overpayments ranging from $500 to $2,000 by the Division of Investigation of the Missouri Department of Social Services, according to Richard P. Easter, an investigator.

Arrested Tuesday morning by sheriff's officers was Marie C. Wagoner, also known as Marie C. Buso, 48, 1700 South Kentucky, who is charged with public assistance (welfare) fraud.

According to the warrant, she allegedly received $3,046 in aid to dependent children payments between July 31, 1972, and Nov. 7, 1974, when in fact she was not entitled to the assistance. She failed to report the transfer of parcels of land at 1700 South Kentucky and 530 East Fourth, funds in Union Savings Bank and in inheritance from the estate of Magdalena Weller, in violation of statute 205.967, the warrant charges.

If convicted of the felony charge, violators face sentences of from 1 to 5 years in prison or a fine of up to $1,000 or both, Easter said. One person convicted in Cooper County was sentenced to four years in prison recently, he said.

Since his department was formed one year ago, its investigations have resulted in $400,000 in over-payments being repaid to the state, Easter said. A total of 3,500 cases involving $1.5 million in alleged overpayments are pending in courts across the state, he noted.

The amount of income and the number of persons in a household are two key factors determining eligibility for welfare payments and the amount of financial aid to be received.

Clues sought in slaying of 3 girls

ELVATON, Md. (AP)—Police slogged through the muddy woods surrounding this suburban community today in hopes of finding the weapon used by an unknown killer who savagely stabbed three small girls in the back while they played within shouting distance of their homes on Sunday.

The bodies of Theresa Hogan, 8, her sister Deborah Anne, 10, and Ann Marie Brzeszkiewicz, 8, were found Monday by officers after an overnight search initiated by their frantic parents.

The girls had left their homes early Sunday evening to play at a children's fort in the woods.

The usually tranquil subdivision is located about 12 miles south of Baltimore, away from major freeways or shopping centers. Some residents speculated that the killer, therefore, may have been one of their own neighbors.

Police, however, said they were virtually empty-handed so far in their investigation of the brutal murders. About 15 officers combed the scene today with metal detectors, while another 45 were assigned elsewhere on the case.

Senate takes a vote

Child pornography ban closer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is moving closer to adopting a bill outlawing child pornography, which one lawmaker says has exploded into a multimillion dollar business using children as young as three.

The latest step was an 85-1 vote in the Senate Monday night for passage of a bill outlawing the use of children under 16 in the production of pornographic magazines, films and other materials. It also bars the interstate sale and distribution of such materials.

The measure is similar to one passed recently by the House. But still another bill of this nature is expected to be acted on by the House next week, so the final form of the legislation is yet to be determined. The Senate bill provides for fines of up to $10,000 and imprisonment for two to 10 years for a first conviction. For a second conviction, the penalties would be fines of up to $15,000 and imprisonment for five to 15 years.

An amendment offered by Sen. William Roth Jr., R-Del., and adopted on a 73-12 vote, would provide the same penalties for the sale or distribution of materials depicting sexually explicit conduct by children.

Sen. John Culver, D-Iowa, floor manager of the bill, called Roth's amendment "overkill." He said it might lead to a successful court challenge of the constitutionality of the measure, based

Development plan given city funding

By MAX ERKILETIAN
Staff Writer

Pettis County will have an Overall Economic Development Plan (OEDP) thanks to action of the City Council meeting in special session Monday afternoon. The council appropriated up to $2,000 for the study.

The plan is a prerequisite to receiving funds from the federal government's Economic Development Administration (EDA). Funds from the EDA are to be used to benefit the economy of the county, according to federal guidelines.

Jim Hamm, economic development director, told the council such funds might be applied to such areas as vocational education facilities and equipment, roads and the city's sewage system. A study of the sewage system is in progress and Hamm noted that funds will be needed to update that system once the study is completed.

Frank Schwarzer, executive director of the Show-me Regional Planning Commission, appeared before the council to support the OEDP.

Under questioning from Fourth Ward Republican Larry Stevenson, Schwarzer said he had discussed funding the plan with the County Court. However, the court rejected the idea, claiming it did not have funds available for such an undertaking. The court also declared it had given the city's economic development department $1,000 for national advertising. That amount has already been spent, according to Hamm.

The court had been notified earlier this year that Pettis County was eligible for EDA money, because its unemployment was above the 6 per cent required for such funding.

Presiding judge is upset by comments

John Bluhm Jr., presiding judge of the County Court, issued a statement to newsmen Tuesday morning in which he took exception to critical remarks directed at the court by city fathers at Monday's special council meeting.

"We, as a County Court, this year for the first time gave $1,000 for help for Sedalia economic development because they have a specialist in this field who knows the ropes of getting these funds and also because we are vitally interested in economic growth of Sedalia and Pettis County as a whole..." Bluhm's statement read.

Continuing, Bluhm countered that the city has not always lived up to its agreements with the county and that the court had no say in the recent establishment of new industries in the county, but "was completely ignored."

"...Also, when the County Court hired Continental Appraisal Co. to equalize county property (assessments) as required by statute, the then City Council and mayor agreed to pay 50 per cent of the costs. The city gained more than 50 per cent of the benefits from equalization — the county paid 'all' costs because the city backed down on their agreement with the county. Are we, as a County Court, being unfair?" Bluhm's statement concluded.

Bluhm and Eastern Judge Russell McFatrach agreed that recent remarks against the court by the City Council over funding a county economic development study were unjust. Funds for such a project are not available in the county budget, they said, and involved officials were notified of that situation when the study proposal first surfaced.

Both Bluhm and McFatrach also criticized the city for its alleged failure to consult county officials on decisions and plans affecting both in recent industrial negotiations.

Peace prize awarded

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The award of a Nobel Peace Prize to Betty Williams and Mairead Corrigan has put their peace movement back in the headlines, but it could heighten jealousies and divisions within the 14-month-old crusade.

The delayed award Monday of the 1976 prize to the two founders of Northern Ireland's Peace People underlined that the organization is more popular and respected abroad than it is at home.

This year's peace prize went to Amnesty International, the London-based group which works toward freedom for political prisoners.

Mrs. Williams, 34, and Miss Corrigan, 32, are considered heroines in the United States and in Western Europe. But in Northern Ireland their campaign to end eight years of warfare is beset by ideological squabbles, dwindling support and criticism of the women's leadership.

A hard-core membership of 8,000 doggedly press on, braving terrorist threats and abuse to try to bring the warring Roman Catholics and Protestants together. But much of the crusade's early support has fizzled out.

"We haven't really stopped the violence and we've hardly dented sectarianism at all," one peace worker commented bitterly. "But we stick to it because the only alternative is continuing violence and the rule of the gun."

The movement was launched Aug. 10, 1976, after a guerrilla's runaway automobile killed three small Catholic children in Belfast. Their deaths set off an emotional tidal wave that brought scores of thousands of Protestants and Catholics together for the first time in years. Though the violence continues, the fervor has gradually diminished.

Foreign tours by Mrs. Williams and Miss Corrigan made them media superstars.

Americans share in top physics prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Two Americans and a Briton won the Nobel prize for physics today and a Belgian was awarded the prize for chemistry.

The Swedish Academy gave the physics prize to John H. Van Vleck, 78, of Harvard University; his former student Philip Anderson, 55, of Princeton University and Bell Laboratories; and Sir Neville F. Mott, 72, of Cambridge University in England.

The chemistry prize went to Ilya Prigogine, 60, of the Free University of Brussels. He is also director of the Center for Statistical Mechanics and Thermodynamics at the University of Texas.

The physics winners, who will share equally a $145,000 prize, were cited for research on the electronic structure of magnetic and disordered systems — work applied to development of the laser, advancement in the industrial use of glass, and in copper spirals for birth control devices.

Prigogine, who gets $145,000, was cited for contributions in the field of thermodynamics.

The physics award was announced behind schedule after three hours' deliberation by the academy, which was reportedly divided over two sets of candidates.

A statement by the academy cited the winners' "highly valuable contributions" in "large domains" of physics.

"This year's prize put the emphasis on their work concerning electron-electron interaction and the coupling between the motions of the electrons and the atomic nuclei in magnetic and disordered materials, where they ... have gone far beyond the conventional theories, with direct importance for experiments and technology," the academy said.

Inmates in bloody riot; have control

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP) — Hundreds of rebellious convicts held part of Jalisco state prison today after executing 13 inmates they charged tyrannized them as agents of the prison administration.

Police and firemen appeared to be readying for an assault Monday night, setting up floodlights in front of a prison wall. But no attack was ordered.

Prison Director Pedro Parra said late Monday night security forces had regained control of the fortress-like, 2,300-inmate penitentiary. But no guards ventured beyond the administrative section in the front of the prison, and inmates who fled from the cellblocks said the rioters still held the main part of the complex.

A statement reportedly signed by 400 rebel inmates said the killings were "not a crime but justice." They demanded better food, work opportunities, efficient medical service and better living conditions.

Five other persons including two guards were injured in the violence Monday morning. By midafternoon all guards had been withdrawn from the cellblocks, and 2,000 men roamed freely over the interior.

American prisoners — officially said to number eight, but one American inmate said there were 17 — did not join in the rebellion, and none was injured, officials

Moscato is taken to Kansas City for arraignment

Richard Frances Moscato, 40, LaMonte, formerly of Waltham, Mass., was transferred from the Pettis County jail to Kansas City Tuesday morning by U.S. Marshal Emmett Fairfax for arraignment in U.S. Magistrate Court on federal flight to avoid prosecution charges.

Moscato was arrested Sunday afternoon by the Highway Patrol as he left a relative's home in LaMonte. He is charged in connection with the Nov. 9, 1974, shooting death of Anthony Giorgio, Rhode Island, outside a Boston-area bar.

According to Boston police, Moscato and another man, Phil Leach, also of Waltham, Mass., allegedly shot and killed Giorgio in an argument over a woman. Leach was arrested a short time after the shooting and later convicted of first-degree murder.

Following his arraignment on the federal flight warrant, Moscato will be returned to Massachusetts to face the murder charge.

$20,000 fire is blamed on furnace

An estimated $20,000 damage was done by fire to the home of Bob Naylor, 201 East 13th, about 9 p.m. Monday.

Naylor was asleep when the fire started and woke to find the house full of smoke. He escaped without injury. No one else was injured in the blaze.

Fire officials reported that a faulty wall furnace ignited the ceiling above it. The fire then burned through the ceiling and engulfed the attic of the frame house.

Naylor's roommates, Gary Naylor and Glen Moore, were not home at the time of the fire. The house is owned by A.B. Gilmore.

Damage was listed at $15,000 to the building and $5,000 to the contents.

Program puts emphasis on careers

A federally-funded educational program designed to enable students to explore various careers in order to get a perspective about careers and work, and to place their own career interests and abilities into that perspective in order to make career decisions that are best for them, was the subject of the Sedalia Rotary Club program Monday at the Ramada Inn.

Miss Judy Kuhlman, career education director at State Fair Community College, presented the details of the educational program, which is known as experience-based career education, and stated it is set up to give high school students a direction in their sophomore year different than they might usually take. Federal funding amounts to $500,000 for the next three years, Miss Kuhlman stated, and the program here will be the only one so funded in a rural area of this state, and only one of three so funded throughout the nation.

Training is for one semester, and instead of attending classes, the speaker stated, the students selecting to work in the program look over the many different places to work in the community and choose the places and jobs they want to know more about. They then spend from three days to 13 weeks at the job sites they've selected, she stated, and they may follow their interests from one job site to another. Through individualized instruction by professional teachers, termed learning coordinators, the student is able to make his job experiences relate to academic experiences and thus earn academic credits.

The career education program functions through a Community Advisory Council, Miss Kuhlman noted, and is supported by business, industry, labor, education and government in order to give students the job observation experience they need to benefit from the program.

Jacque Cowherd, learning coordinator for the program's three-county area comprised of 10 schools in Cooper, Benton and Pettis Counties, appeared on the program with Miss Kuhlman. They were both introduced by Fred Kingsolver, program chairman.

Larry McRoy called attention to several travel tour plans available to Rotarians planning to attend the Rotary International Convention in Tokyo, May 13-17.

Guests for the meeting were A.W. Kiang Jr., Columbia; Milton Hinlein, Sebring, Fla.; and Wayne Jaeger, Warrensburg; all Rotarians, and Don Miller, Sedalia, a guest of K.U. Love. They were introduced by the Rev. George Kern. Miss Becky Keck and Joe Lalla, Sacred Heart High School student guests, were introduced by Bob Hoskins.

Chemical plant admits its workers died

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — As many as six workers exposed to a chemical used in making synthetic rubber in the 1950s may have died from a rare form of cancer, it has been reported.

Another 150 of their colleagues have undergone twice-yearly tests since then.

The Charleston Gazette reported today that Monsanto chemical company spokesman Barney Wander said about six employees heavily exposed to the substance at a plant near here died of bladder tumors. Use of the substance, paraaminobiphenyl (PAB), was stopped immediately when the cancer threat surfaced in 1955, he said.

However, Wander later denied that he had specified six deaths. "I don't know the number of deaths myself. I have no way to judge that," Wander told the Associated Press in an interview.

The newspaper reported that workers at the plant, at Nitro, said as many as 12 may have died of bladder cancer.

The company discovered in 1957 that PAB was entering the lungs of workers and passing through their blood and urine to their bladders, where it caused cancer, according to Wander, who is based in St. Louis.

"We immediately stopped using PAB," Wander said. "Monsanto did all it could to make the best of a difficult situation ... There are 155 men at Nitro in the screening program, getting medical exams every six months.

"We've never attempted to hide it," Wander said. "All the families knew about it."

Monsanto could not be sure of the number of PAB-related deaths and illnesses without extensive checks of company files, Wander said. He added that PAB had been used only at the Nitro plant.

Estel Dailey of Bancroft in Putnam County was one worker who was exposed to PAB. He told The Gazette: "They doctored me six or seven years before they finally took my bladder out in 1964. Monsanto paid all my medical costs ...

"I'm the only one I know who lived this long, but my back and hips hurt so bad I can't do much."

Plane is hijacked by line's employees

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — A man and woman employed by the Czechoslovak airlines and carrying loaded pistols hijacked a domestic jetliner to Frankfurt airport today and asked for political asylum, police said.

The two wore their uniforms but traveled as passengers, police said.

After holding the other 24 passengers and three crew members hostage on the plane for two hours, the two surrendered to police, Frankfurt police chief Knut Mueller said.

He identified them only as Vlastislav T., 29, and Ruzena V., 22, both employed by the CSA airline in Karlovy Vary, a once glittering spa known as Carlsbad. They carried pistols when they boarded the flight to Prague, he said.

The hijackers were taken to the airport terminal for questioning and were expected to be formally arrested later today for "endangering airline transportation," Mueller said.

Airport authorities said the Soviet-built Yak 40 airliner would return to Czechoslovakia with the passengers and crew.

☆ Funding

Pettis County's preliminary unemployment figure for August stood at 6.3 per cent, Chuck Yavrouian, manager of the state employment office here, said Tuesday. He credited this mainly to the seasonal effect of having many students in the job market.

However, funding requirements have been altered. By Jan. 1 only counties whose unemployment rate exceeds the national average will be eligible for EDA money. Therefore, Pettis County must submit an OEDP by Dec. 31.

Schwarzer reported that the court had agreed to participate in the OEDP if funds from another governmental unit were available. Under EDA restrictions, only the county government can submit an OEDP. However, funding of the study can come from any source within the county.

"If we are ever to be funded," Hamm told the council, "we should have this study underway and to the EDA by Dec. 31, because we might not have a chance to be funded again."

Schwarzer said there is a verbal understanding that the OEDP to be submitted by Pettis County will be approved, allowing the county to receive EDA funds. However, he admitted that such an understanding "is no guarantee."

"This appears to be a one-time shot," Schwarzer said. "If you don't receive it now, you probably won't get it at all, because it is unlikely that you will be able to meet the EDA requirements again."

Under questioning from Stevenson, Schwarzer reiterated that the County Court would not allocate funds for the project, but was "for it 100 per cent."

"I'll let that statement stand," Stevenson said. "Because, that's a little bit ridiculous for them to say that $1,000 is their part of economic development."

Other councilmen echoed Stevenson's sentiment. However, all agreed that the OEDP was needed.

Third Ward Democrat Carl Franklin noted that he felt it was the council's responsibility to fund the project. However, he added, "There's nothing to keep us from getting other groups to chip in on this." He specifically mentioned Sedalia School District 200 and the Sedalia Water Department.

Bob Woolery, dean of community services at State Fair Community College, also appeared in support of the OEDP.

After the plane landed the hijackers demanded the airliner be refueled for a 180-mile flight southward to Munich.

Authorities convinced them to surrender after telling them that the special fuel needed for the flight was not readily available at Frankfurt.

Mueller said a Frankfurt airport official, Ingo Kluss, negotiated with the hijackers through an open window of the jetliner, which was parked out of sight of the terminal and surrounded by police commandos.

The Czechoslovak pilot acted as interpreter in the negotiations carried out in English and German, Mueller said.

Karlovy Vary and its sister spa, Mariánské Lázně, formerly Marienbad, are the usual starting or landing points for flights hijacked from Czechoslovakia to West Germany. Both are near the West German border and have figured in six hijackings to West Germany since 1970.

The airline employees were able to get their weapons aboard the plane despite stringent anti-hijacking precautions in force at Karlovy Vary.

Robber makes off with $21 in cash

A robber who handed an employee of the Thurman's fruit market, 302 East 16th, a note demanding money made off with $21 in cash in a 1:20 p.m. Monday robbery.

According to police, the lone gunman, wearing a blue ski mask, new looking blue jeans and a blue hooded sweatshirt, entered the store and handed a handwritten note to a store employee. The note reportedly read: "Put all the bills in a brown paper bag or I'll kill you." The man was holding a .22 caliber automatic pistol.

The currency was in 16 one-dollar bills and one five-dollar bill.

After taking the money in the paper bag, the robber fled south from the store down an alley. At 17th Street, according to an eyewitness, he turned east and got into a 1966-68 black Chevrolet Impala. The car then sped off to the east.

The French menu is more streamlined today

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

PARIS (NEA)—The French have long enjoyed the reputation of connoisseurs in the art of eating.

But in this, as in many other ways of life, a bloodless revolution has taken place. Jean Dupont (the John Doe of France), beset by the vitamin obsession, fear of the effects of cholesterol, the battle to avoid overweight by sidetracking greed, the fifth major sin, has awakened to the fact that the traditional ritual of two daily major meals has been radically undermined.

The French revolutionary masses once demanded bread and freedom. In 1936, with the appearance of the Popular Front, it was steak and paid vacation. In 1977 they think in terms of health and leisure.

The "bouffe" (slang for food) according to recent polls today becomes a relative item, no longer dominating the family budget—which does not mean that it no longer represents a major expenditure. But it is a far cry from the 15 dishes or courses once considered a must to celebrate a birth, marriage or any other great family occasion to the more calorie-conscious five courses which represents a formal repast today.

This same approach is evident in the simplification of the interminable official dinners given by the president of the Republic to visiting royalty or heads of government. In 1905 no fewer than 17 courses were served at the Elysee Palace in honor of King Alfonso of Spain. But when President Charles de Gaulle entertained President and Mrs. John F. Kennedy in 1961, a relatively simple menu consisting of six courses was served.

It appears that fewer Frenchmen today suffer from "mal de foie" (liver trouble) because they have simplified their eating habits, not because they have tried especially to limit their expenses. They are also decidedly more weight-conscious.

Because the French are generally more prosperous today food specialists say that they want more variety in their meals. The image of the Frenchman wearing a beret and carrying a yard of bread under his arm has now become folklore. Bread consumption, which really was the staff of life for many, has dropped phenomenally—in 1970 it was 160 pounds per year per person, a third of what it was less than 100 years back, and it is estimated that by 1980 the figure will be around 125 pounds.

For most big receptions today, refreshments are limited to buffets consisting of reconstituted hams, fowl, cheese and fish cut into bite-pieces stuck on a slender stick.

"Although rich in proteins, potatoes, beans and lentils have met their Waterloo in all collective canteens in factories, schools, barracks and hospitals," says Marcel Forget, president of the coordination committee which supplies something like 12 million meals daily.

Now time-saving housewives are thankful for the appearance of deepfreezers in supermarkets and smaller stores where they can buy packaged french fries, dehydrated purees, milk and other articles which their elders tend to despise, believing that the process leaves any product tasteless.

Frenchmen have become carnivorous, says Professor Bourg, who lectures on human feeding at one of the leading city hospitals. "This is the new form of daily bread," he points out. Trouble is, according to the butchers' syndicate, housewives now demand thick steaks, legs of lamb and other choice cuts because they have not or will not take the time to waste on a less-expensive pot roast or succulent stew.

Fish comes next in popular favor. The variety of deep-frozen fish is wide and it is slightly less expensive than meat and all restaurants offer a varied selection of fish dishes on their menus.

Cheese is still a greatly appreciated staple in the French eating habits. For 1974 records show a consumption of 28 pounds per capita per year and this figure is supposed to reach 36 pounds by 1980, or eight times more than one hundred years ago. But refrigeration has endangered the quality of the 460 varieties that France produces.

The French have not yet acquired the habit of drinking a glass of orange juice with their breakfast, but since time immemorial fresh fruit appears at both lunch and dinner, usually replacing a dessert or ice cream. The last maturity. When a market gardener whose small holding is situated 10 or 15 miles from Paris comes along with his crop of seasonal fruit and vegetables, his stall is devastated by a crowd of once was reserved for special occasions.

Go to the few open-air markets left in the Paris area and here you will see piles of seasonal fruit on sale. They are bigger than 20 years ago but the older generation sighs and say they have lost their savor by being picked before buyers who know the produce has never been near a block of ice.

Wine is still a staple in French families. But the rough "gros rouge" (red wine) has been abandoned for a better quality. Labeled and bottled wines always appear on festive occasions as well as champagne.

Consumption of bottled waters and soft drinks double every 10 years—from 30 quarts in 1960 to around 115 in 1980.

The French, along the years have become diet conscious and while two decades back there was really only one cookbook in every household—"Tante Marie"—today they are legion.

There is also a definitely different approach in French restaurants, from the bistro to the three-star establishment. It is not so long ago when a client never would have dreamed of ordering just one main dish in a three-star restaurant, simply because he would have lost face with the headwaiter. Things have changed today and the most imposing maitre d'hotel will not flinch when a client announces: "I will start with a main dish."

Says Minister of Health Simone Weil, "People now understand that a gala meal need not consist of 15 courses." Smart women today have returned to the stove and a hostess prides herself on producing a single dish which she has cooked herself. Men have followed the movement also, even to the point of attending cookery classes.

The concern for economic gastronomy is related to the modern way of life. People are more sedentary, walk less, use fewer muscles. This goes for the big business executive right on through to the blue collar worker, and the farm hand. City people live in overheated rooms. All this means that eating habits connected with an active life can prove harmful to health. It is therefore necessary to rationalize eating habits to the individual way of life.

Today man's enemy is obesity. Slenderness, a flat stomach, induces a happier outlook and prolongs life. The florid face and rounded stomach of the prosperous middle-class bourgeois of the 19th century could almost be considered an infirmity today.

Polly's pointers

Telephone cord has tough tangles

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is for others who may have adorable but mischievous cats. I think I have a nice protection for my cat when I go out. There is a day bed in my large rumpus room. I have fastened chicken wire all around the bottom of the bed with a door entrance that shuts and is secure so the cat is comfortably confined whenever I have to go out for a while. I put water and whatever else he needs inside and when I come home the room is intact. — GEORGE.

DEAR POLLY — I want to tell Mrs. A.K. how to make a totebag from plastic bottles. I make them all the time and am working on one now.

Cut three-inch squares from the plastic cartons — it will take 24 to make a bag. For a larger bag use four-inch squares. Punch holes all around the outside of each square and then single crochet in each hole with yarn. Punch a hole in the center of each square and work yarn from outside holes to center hole to make a sort of sunburst effect. Sew squares together in threes. Have nine squares on each side of the bag and three on each end. Use one large round plastic bottle like a bleach bottle to make the top and one to make the handle. Punch holes around the outside and single crochet around. Then sew the sides to the bottom with yarn and then sew the ends. Cut handle from bottle and sew on. Then line the bag. — MRS. E.C.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — I wonder if any reader could tell me how to keep my 25 foot long telephone cord from getting tangled. — DOROTHY.

DEAR DOROTHY — I am sure many readers will be telling you how they solved this problem. In the meanwhile, why not wind it into long loops about a foot long and hold them together with a rubber band. The band can be easily slipped off if the longer cord is needed at any time. — POLLY.

Seeing, being seen aids spooks' safety

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Halloween masks can be a hazard and should be avoided, warns the American Optometric Association.

Non-allergic makeup applied by adults is a safer choice for disguising trick-or-treaters, the group suggests.

Masks can slip out of place or have such small eye holes that they block a child's view of approaching cars, objects on the ground, steps, curbs and holes in lawns or streets.

Another Halloween safety tip from the optometrists is to decorate costumes with retro-reflective material to make wearers highly visible to drivers.

According to optometric studies at Indiana University, retroreflective material on shoes and clothing makes pedestrians safely visible to drivers even at high speeds. Nothing else, not even white clothing, can top it, the studies show.

Retro-reflective material can be purchased in iron-on, sew-on and stick-on varieties in most hardware and department stores. It should be applied to the front, sides and back of the costume and can be incorporated into the costume design.

Parents should also caution their children not to walk in the street (to use yards if there are no sidewalks), to look carefully before crossing a street; to cross at a corner with a street light if at all possible; and to carry a flashlight or battery-operated lantern.

Before dirt goes too far wash and wax your car

By HERB ALEXANDER

Everyone has his favorite car-washing tricks. Some swear by laundry detergent and hot water, others prefer special car wash solutions, while some are loyal to kerosene and water.

Whichever method you use, certain procedures are basic. Washing is only half the job. To protect that finish, you should give it a coat of wax. That paint job may look absolutely smooth, but it is filled with microscopic pores that are subject to damage from dirt, moisture and heat unless sealed.

Waxing also saves work. Your care will need a thorough scrubbing before waxing, but after waxing you can clean off road dirt with an occasional cold water wash.

When a car needs rewaxing, remove what's left of the old coating with a good wash job.

Keep your car parked in the shade for at least one hour before you start washing. The surface should be cool. Cold water on a hot surface can damage the paint.

Hose down your car to remove much of the loose dust and dirt. But don't use a high-pressure stream of water.

Set the brakes before you start. The shoes pressed against the drums will keep the brake linings from getting wet, and also prevent any freak accident.

Always wet the car and wash it from the bottom up, NOT from the top down. Water running down over a dirty surface will cause streaks impossible to remove.

Don't allow the water to dry in patches. Wipe off with a chamois or soft cloth.

Now that it's washed, is the car clean enough to wax? Not likely. There's a layer of dead lacquer that should be removed with a before-waxing cleaner.

Some products combine a wax and cleaner. If you are using one of these, and you are satisfied with the result, you can stop after that one application.

Wax in the shade or on a dull day. The car body should be cool. Wax a small area at a time. Use a water-dampened cloth pad to apply, then spread evenly with a dry cloth. Give wax a few moments to dry, then polish. Be sure to read manufacturer's instructions.

"Let's talk dry cleaning"

By CRAIG WHITE

Do all jersey knits shrink in drycleaning? Briefly, the answer is "NO": the majority of them can be drycleaned and finished satisfactorily. However, jersey knits do need special handling and the care of a professional.

One thing you can do which will save you a lot of trouble and grief is to save the labels or hang tags that are attached to your garment. Show them to us. Many tags give special directions for cleaning and care.

No matter how careful we are, jersey knits may shrink when drycleaned. There is no pattern or method for predicting the degree of shrinkage before cleaning. However we do our utmost to keep them from shrinking.

Jersey knits are around-the-clock fashion, from sports separates and coats to dresses and cocktail gowns. They are a practical fashion and may be packed easily.

For your jersey knits, and all your drycleanables you can bring them to us with the knowledge that we are professionals.

EPA gets honest

Very few new car buyers have been getting that "35 country, 23 city" or whatever the official gasoline mileage figures are for a particular automobile. Some have been so upset by the discrepancy between advertised and actual performance that they have stormed into dealers asking, "How come?"

Storm no more. The Environmental Protection Agency, which administers the mileage tests, says it is going to change the tests beginning with the 1979 model year so they more accurately reflect the mileage motorists actually get on the road.

The figures were never meant to represent real-life experience, says the EPA. They are a laboratory standard by which the performance of a given car can be rated against that of other cars. In other words, a guide for comparison shopping.

The consuming public, of course, takes the figures quite literally, especially since they are prominently displayed in advertising by the automakers (as required by federal law).

The change can be welcomed not only as a small victory for truth in advertising but as a small step toward restoring public confidence that the people who run the agencies that regulate our lives know what they're doing.

Even when the revised figures come out next year, however, prospective car buyers will still be cautioned that their personal driving habits, etc., may give them mileages different from the "official" ones. (NEA)

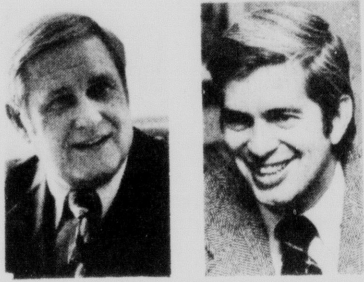

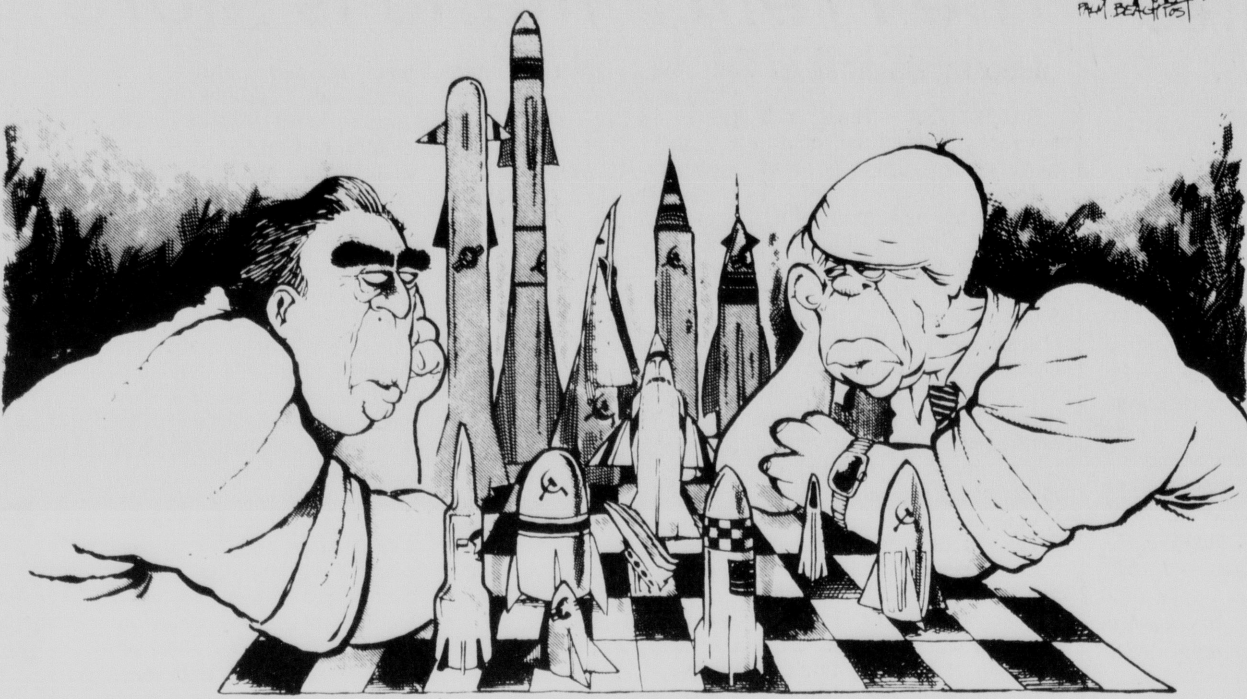

Rights, Soviet style

In a 1,500-0 vote, the Supreme Soviet has adopted a new constitution for the country, which it modestly calls the most democratic in the world. So much for truth-in-packaging in Russia.

The new document, which replaces the old 1936 constitution put together by that lover of democracy Joseph Stalin, actually differs in few substantial respects.

Although it guarantees freedom of the press, assembly, religion and speech, all of these are freedoms only insofar as they do not conflict with the state, reads the constitution.

Each Soviet citizen also has the right to complain to authorities if he has a gripe. But don't be too surprised if the reply comes in the form of a one-way ticket to Siberia.

WASHINGTON — Bobby Baker, the bright-eyed Senate wheeler-dealer whose financial finagling became an embarrassment to Lyndon Johnson, was once asked by Richard Nixon's henchmen for some dirt on the Democrats.

The details are contained in an anecdote-packed book, tentatively titled "Child of the Senate," that Baker is writing about his controversial career in and out of government. Although the manuscript, 14 years in the making, is still in draft form, we have learned it will contain new revelations about Johnson and Nixon, as well as John Kennedy, Dwight Eisenhower, John Connally, Bebe Rebozo, Abe Fortas, Clark Clifford and Robert Vesco.

Shortly before the 1972 presidential election, Baker relates, Nixon's closest crony, Bebe Rebozo, asked Baker if he had any derogatory information on Democratic National Chairman Lawrence O'Brien.

Baker conceded to Rebozo in a private

Merry-go-round

Bobby Baker tells of Nixon approach meeting that he wasn't too fond of the Democratic candidate, Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D. But he told Rebozo that he didn't know of any scandalous material on O'Brien.

Undaunted, Rebozo reportedly pressed Baker for embarrassing information on other leading Democrats. The peppy Baker was only able to suggest some minor violations that Rebozo wasn't interested in.

Nixon's personal attorney, Herbert Kalmbach, also is said to have pressed Baker for derogatory information on O'Brien, the book says. The Nixon forces were preoccupied with O'Brien, Baker says, because they feared he could link Nixon to embarrassing incidents involving billionaire recluse Howard Hughes.

In another chapter, Baker describes how he asked Johnson, once he was out of office, to help him out of his legal difficulties with the federal government. At Baker's urging, LBJ allegedly asked former Texas Gov. John Connally to intervene with President Nixon on Baker's behalf.

Johnson reportedly felt that Baker, who already had been convicted of theft and income tax evasion, was the target of a political vendetta. At LBJ's request, Connally allegedly asked Nixon to grant a pardon to Baker.

Nixon, says Baker, rejected the idea. Baker now says he was not interested in any pardon because it would have been an admission of wrongdoing.

Another time, President Nixon called Johnson to tell him coyly he was naming LBJ's old friend, John Connally, as secretary of the treasury. Instead of being pleased, Johnson was angry because neither Nixon nor Connally had cleared it with him. LBJ's longtime friend Liz Carpenter confirmed to us that Johnson "was slightly hurt" because Nixon called him only five minutes before making the official announcement.

Footnote: We were unable to reach Kalmbach, Connally or Rebozo for comment.

Editorial is unfair to teachers

As a "key person" in the classroom, a teacher, I feel there are two sides to the question involving the competency of teachers (editorial, Oct. 4). The debate continues over the decline in the SAT scores, true. However, to point the finger at any one cause is both invalid and unjust.

You stated, "If the teacher has mastered his subject matter, children will learn. They did so before and there isn't any reason to believe they can't today." Let's examine the premise and the generalization involved in this statement.

First, you support your statement on an isolated example in Maryland, in a large school district, and with English teachers.... To be valid your evidence must contain examples from across the country, showing a trend. Second, your example deals with a large school district.... Your statistics are again invalid for the conclusion drawn. Third, your generalizations centered around tests given to English teachers. English teachers only comprise 20.4 per cent of the teachers in the schools today.... Overall, the statistics which you use to support the generalizations about the incompetency of teachers are deficient.

Actually, it is not too difficult to understand your desire to improve the quality of education. However, to use teachers as the scapegoat cannot possibly improve the quality of education. All it does is weaken the position of the competent teacher, who is fighting the battle of broken homes, television, learning disabilities, and uncaring students.

Once a child desired to go to school to improve himself. Today, children go to school because it is required of them, and it is where their friends are. Once a child fought against the elements for the privilege of attending school; now they pray the elements will cancel school for the day.

... School teachers today do not go into the profession for glory, for monetary rewards, or for advancement in their fields. A teacher today goes into the field to teach students something specific, which the teacher has spent years learning, and even more years learning how to teach.

Your idea of requiring competency tests for teachers is a good one, however it has its drawbacks. What about the small minority of teachers who know their field expertly, but can't teach? Just requiring a competency test won't solve the problem you indite. The solution must be more complex, if the problem truly exists. I believe the present system weeds out the incompetent teachers and replaces them with good teachers.

Never has obtaining a teaching job been more difficult. Teachers have more certification restrictions than at any time during the history of public education, and the job market is swamped with competent and qualified teachers. To become a teacher is more difficult for those reasons, and many more. That is why I feel your article was unfair and supported by the weakest of evidence.

Your quote from the editorial is incomplete. Besides mentioning mastery of subject matter, the sentence included, "and teaches it in the proper manner." The reference to the Maryland school district was not intended to make a statistical case, only to show the kinds of problems that are encountered today. We doubt that it is an isolated case.—Ed.

c. 1977, Washington Star Syndicate Inc.

Most of the truly important elements of Mr. Carter's plan already have been written into law. Federal welfare statutes already contain stiff work requirements; the Food Stamp program already has been made more generous, so that it amounts to a veritable guaranteed annual income. The administration already has taken significant steps to cut down on fraud.

My thought would be to hang onto the mess we have, which is at least a known and familiar mess, and to make haste slowly in fashioning "reforms." Mr. Carter's warmed-over hash made no hit with Senator Moynihan, and the senator has a chef's credentials. After all, Pat Moynihan was father to FAP.

All alone by the telephone

WASHINGTON — A few weeks ago President Carter called two Washington correspondents, Hedrick Smith of the New York Times and Jack Nelson of the Los Angeles Times, and spent a long time on the phone explaining how close he was to Vice President Walter Mondale and also how hard he, Mr. Carter, was working in the White House.

When the President of the United States calls a newspaperman to explain what he's doing it makes you a big man in this town.

Since then every reporter has a fantasy that he or she will get the next call from the President.

I have to confess that I, too, have been dreaming about it. In my fantasy Jody Powell goes into Mr. Carter's office and says, "You better call Buchwald. He's got it all wrong concerning your position on the three-martini lunch."

The fantasy has become so real that things have become pretty rough around my house.

The first night I said to my wife, "Any telephone calls for me?"

"The Volvo service people called and said it would cost $321 to fix your car."

"I don't mean that kind of call. Have there been any from a high government official?"

"Why would a high government official want to call you?"

"Well, if you must know I'm expecting to hear from the President of the United States."

She started to laugh.

"It's not a joke," I said angrily. "He's starting to call newspapermen in this town and he might be doing it alphabetically."

"If he does call," she said, still giggling, "should I say you're here?"

"Of course, you can tell him I'm here. You don't tell the President of the United States your husband isn't home when he is. And don't tie up the phone for the next two weeks talking to your sister."

The next night I found my son on the phone speaking to a girlfriend.

"How long has he been talking?" I asked my wife.

"About an hour."

"That's just great," I said. "The President of the United States is probably trying to call me and all he can get is a busy signal."

"I'm sure if the President was trying to get you the White House would interrupt the call."

"Well, tell him to get off."

My wife said to my son, "Finish the call. Your father is expecting to get one from the President."

My son said to his girl, "I have to hang up now. My Dad is waiting to hear from President Carter. ... I'm not trying to get you off the line. That's what he says. Yeh, he has been acting a little funny lately. As a matter of fact, he hasn't been the same since Watergate."

"All right," I said, "everyone can make fun of me, but when the call comes through you'll be laughing out of the other side of your mouth. And because of your attitude I'm not going to let any of you listen in."

Since then, every time someone calls my wife says, "I can't talk. Art's expecting a call from President Carter."

"Big mouth. Do you have to tell everyone?"

"I think it's kind of impressive. If he doesn't call by next week, why don't you call him? It might relieve the suspense."

"No way. You don't get the Pulitzer Prize if you call the President. The only way they'll give it to you is if he calls you."

Conservative view

Welfare 'reform': let the taxpayer beware

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — This was the way the headline read, a couple of weeks ago: "Moynihan Unhappy at Welfare Plans." From the news story, it appeared that Daniel Patrick Moynihan, who had praised the President's welfare program in August, had changed his mind in October. Now he found it "grievously disappointing."

Kilpatrick

For all practical purposes, the senator's pronouncement made it unanimous. Heavens to Betsy, I would add, it certainly is not conservative legislation either. What we have, in Mr. Carter's Job and Income Security Program, is a direct descendant of Mr. Nixon's ill-fated Family Assistance Program. The same causes that brought the death of FAP are likely to kill off JISP as well. And fine with me.

One hates to be excessively critical, for today's welfare mess is precisely as Mr. Carter has described it: A mess. The several programs are shot through with fraud and maladministration. The present system tends to encourage a status of permanent dependency. Almost any change, it might be supposed, would represent an improvement. But liberals and conservatives alike are discovering, as they dig more deeply into Mr. Carter's program, that often it is indeed better to bear the ills we have than to fly to others that we know not of.

The White House asserts, in defense of JISP, that Mr. Carter's program would "simplify" the administration of public welfare. The President would abolish Food Stamps, Supplementary Security Income and Aid to Families with Dependent Children. In their place he would substitute a single uniform, nationwide program of cash assistance. This sounds simpler. But on close examination, it becomes evident that the proposed reforms are far more complicated than the existing programs; they would require vastly more checking and monitoring by inspectors and auditors; they would not reduce the number of welfare claimants, but rather would make the number greater still.

When the President first started tinkering with "welfare reform," he was confident that a more equitable plan could be devised at no higher price. He knows better now. At the federal level, welfare now costs about $27.9 billion a year. Mr. Carter would raise that sum to $30.7 billion, but that is only for starters. The White House projection gives no account to $3.4 billion that would be lost to the Treasury through Mr. Carter's income tax credit proposals. These days, everything gets inflated. In net added costs to the Treasury, we are talking of a price tag around $36 billion.

A line could not be held even at that figure. Once JISP were written into law, Congress would confront an irresistible temptation to raise the level of cash assistance in every election year. The Carter program is compounded like a basic recipe for lemonade: Add sweeteners as desired.

The President's greatest problem, as Senator Moynihan's blast made clear, is that the White House has no constituency for this bill. Almost everyone is vaguely in favor of "welfare reform," but few persons feel passionate on the issue. Take away the federal bureaucrats, and whom do you have left? Welfare claimants might provide a potent constituency in themselves, but people on welfare instinctively distrust the name of "reform." Well they might. As a general proposition, poor people are better off in the hands of their oppressors than in the arms of their benefactors.

Truck crash ends in expensive fire

KANSAS, Okla. (AP) — A diesel truck collided with a car on Oklahoma 33 in this north-eastern Oklahoma town Monday afternoon, touching off a spectacular fire which destroyed three businesses and a home.

The crash sent burning fuel spewing across the roadway and onto private property. Smoke from the fire could be seen 20 miles away in Siloam Springs, Ark.

The Oklahoma Highway Patrol estimated damage to the businesses and home at $400,000.

The only injury reported was to the driver of the car, identified as Linda J. Jones, 28, of Kansas. She was listed in good condition at a Siloam Springs hospital.

The driver of the truck, Joe B. Head, 34, of Springdale, Ark., managed to flee the burning truck and was treated and released.

Firefighters from five towns, including Kansas and Siloam Springs, battled the blaze for more than 1½ hours before bringing it under control shortly after 5 p.m.

"It was terrible—just terrible. I've never seen anything like it," said Mrs. Ramona Whitfield, wife of Kansas Fire Chief Sherman Whitfield.

"Smoke, just completely black, covered the whole school and all the homes north of the fire," said Mrs. Whitfield, a high school teacher.

Another witness, J.O. Jones, said burning diesel fuel from the ruptured tank truck streamed about 300 yards down a ditch along the highway and into the businesses.

He said two salvage and auto parts garages were destroyed, along with a residence. Two other businesses and a tavern between the garages and the parts store were damaged.

Investigators said the crash occurred when the car failed to yield at a stop sign and turned left in front of the fuel truck.

Police are searching a heavily wooded area in northern Anne Arundel County, Md., to find a clue to the identity of the person who stabbed to death three young girls and left their bodies face down in a shallow stream. The girls, Terry Hogan, 8, left, her sister Debbie, 10, and Ann Brzeszkiewicz, 8, right, had been missing since 10 p.m. Sunday and were found about 400 yards from their homes about 8:15 a.m. Monday in a wooded area near Southgate, a community south of Glen Burnie, Md.

Court ruling goes in favor of town

FERRELVIEW, Mo. (AP) — If a municipal court judgment is upheld by a higher court this week, the tiny village of Ferrelview will not have many money worries for the next 15 years.

The judgment orders Kuper Heating and Air Conditioning to pay a $104,840 fine for several alleged city zoning violations. The firm operates in the village of 140 persons in Platte County near the northern city limits of Kansas City.

Revenue from the penalty would pay for the city's operations for nearly 15 years, city officials say. This year, the city budget was $7,000.

Kuper appealed the decision to Platte County Circuit Court after Mary Brightwell, a housewife who serves as village mayor and municipal judge, found the firm guilty of the violations July 15. She also fined the firm for violating the city ordinance since early December 1974. And she assessed $12 in court costs.

The company was cited for, among other things, erecting a building without a valid building permit.

Documents on file in the circuit clerk's office indicate a building permit was issued Aug. 28, 1974 for construction of the building and was revoked Dec. 5 of that year.

William Dick Fickle, attorney for the firm, says the building, which was to be used for storage, was moved from the airport onto Kuper-owned property one day before the permit was revoked.

Lamb, veal both low on list

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Comparatively speaking, Americans gulp down huge quantities of beef, pork and poultry but are only nibblers when it comes to lamb and veal.

There is nothing to indicate that this will change, according to the Agriculture Department. In fact, on a per capita basis, Americans will buy more imported hamburger beef this year than they will lamb and veal combined.

Lamb consumption shows the steepest decline, caused primarily in recent years by a drop in sheep production. Veal, which comes from slaughtered calves, has had its ups and downs but also generally has dropped.

Preference for lamb is concentrated among those with ancestry from those parts of the world with historically high lamb consumption — the Middle East and areas of British origin, says USDA's Economic Research Service.

"Most Americans who were not raised on lamb do not eat it, and high prices discourage experimentation with the unfamiliar meat."

On a retail weight basis, the high point for annual per capita lamb consumption was six pounds in 1909 and 1930. Veal consumption was 6.6 and 5.8 pounds, respectively, in those years.

Last year lamb consumption was 1.7 pounds and veal 3.3 pounds. Further slight declines are expected for 1977, the agency says in a new "food situation" report.

By comparison, Americans ate an average of 95.3 pounds of beef and 53.9 pounds of pork last year on a retail weight per capita basis. In addition, per capita consumption included 43.3 pounds of chicken, measured on a ready-to-cook basis.

Lamb and veal consumption together last year — 5.1 pounds — accounted for about 3.3 per cent of total U.S. per capita meat consumption, not including poultry.

By contrast, the imports of foreign beef to make hamburger averaged nearly six pounds for each American in 1976.

The report cites the long-time decline in the U.S. sheep industry which, traditionally, has existed primarily to produce wool. Lamb meat has been mostly a byproduct of wool production. Periodically low wool prices, problems with predators in the Western flocks and shifts to other livestock operations have taken a steady toll.

But the report says that "limited demand" for lamb among American consumers also has been important in addition to the decline in the U.S. sheep industry.

A survey of U.S. households in 1965 showed that those in income brackets of $15,000 and over consumed about 8.5 pounds of lamb a year per capita, compared with less than three pounds for people earning under $7,000.

Also, lamb consumption was much higher in cities than in farming areas. For example, in the urban northeast consumption was seven pounds a person while in southern farm areas lamb consumption was two-tenths of a pound a year.

"Because of specialized demand and curtailed production, retail lamb prices, along with veal, are higher than any item in the meat, poultry and fish category," the report said.

For example, last June the average price of lamb chops was $3.07 a pound, compared with $2.50 for porterhouse steak, $2.28 for frozen shrimp, and $1.12 for chicken breasts.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department scientists say they have developed a new type of spillway for small farm reservoirs that can improve the quality of pond water and possibly reduce dam construction costs.

The department's Agricultural Research Service says that the development is called an "automatic bottom-withdrawal spillway" which works like a syphon.

Instead of taking excess water from the top of a reservoir as is done with a conventional spillway, the syphon removes water from the bottom of the pond where incoming soil sediment and other pollutants gather.

"By pulling out the poorest quality water, the system reduces the amount of sediment that accumulates in the reservoir's lower levels and extends the life of the reservoir," the agency said.

The scientists say that since sediment problems are reducing, future dams with bottom withdrawal systems can be made smaller, thus saving millions of dollars in construction costs.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Production of red clover seed is estimated at 25.4 million pounds, a drop of 32 per cent from more than 37.1 million pounds last year, according to the Agriculture Department.

Officials said that "untimely rains in August and September" hampered harvest of the seed and caused yields to decline. Drought, severe cold last winter and grasshoppers also were factors.

The Illinois crop is estimated at 4 million pounds, down from 5,525,000 last year; Oregon 3,570,000 and 3,900,000; Ohio 2,590,000 and 3,600,000; Missouri 2,590,000 and 4,950,000; and Michigan 2,375,000 and 5,170,000 pounds, as examples.

Lutheran hymnal to be revised

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The publishing arm of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod plans to publish a new Lutheran hymnal in 1978, despite rejection of the hymnal by the synod at its July convention.

Concordia Publishing House in St. Louis said it still plans "at this time" to publish the new Lutheran Book of Worship. The hymnal will be published with Augsburg Publishing House of the American Lutheran Church and Fortress Press of the Lutheran Church in America.

At its biennial convention last July, the Missouri Synod withheld approval of the new hymnal, which had been developed jointly by four North American Lutheran churches.

The synod decided that a panel should evaluate the book and either recommend changes or advocate the start of work on a separate hymnal. The "blue ribbon panel" is to make its recommendations at the 1979 convention, but the hymnal is slated for publication next fall.

The Rev. Ralph Reinke, president of Concordia Publishing, said the firm "must keep our hand in."

"It is unclear at this time what the committee is going to do, and what our response should be," he said.

Reinke noted that the Missouri Synod still sends representatives to the Inter-Lutheran Commission on Worship, the body that drafted the hymnal. Therefore, he said the church is "still involved in the preparation of the book."

If it continues as joint publisher, Concordia will be able to distribute the hymnal to Lutheran congregations next fall. However, Missouri Synod congregations will not be permitted to make official use of the book unless it wins approval at a synod convention.

At a publisher's meeting in Chicago on Friday, the price of the book was set at $7.50 per copy for books ordered in 1978 and $8.50 thereafter.

"I've got all the money anyone would want... When I think about it all, it's overwhelming"

BUFFALO (AP) — Sometimes, O.J. Simpson simply shuts his eyes and lets it all wash over him. He thinks about his superstar status as one of football's all-time greats; his lucrative advertising interests; his budding acting career; his top ranking in several polls seeking America's heroes. Then he remembers the kid with skinny legs, running with street gangs in south San Francisco and living in a federally-funded apartment project. "I was always a cocky kid. I always thought I'd be a great baseball player, then a great football player. But I never thought about all the off-the-field things," said Simpson. "I grew up in a project. Now I've got a beautiful home. I've got all the money anyone would want. Sometimes when I think about it all, it's overwhelming." Simpson's primary employer, the Buffalo Bills football club, is paying him an estimated $2.3 million over three years. Added to that are his considerable wages for the two or three film roles he takes a year and the proceeds from his advertising endorsements. His Hertz "Superstar in Rent-a-Car" commercials, which feature a nattily-attired Simpson dashing through an airport terminal, have been wildly successful for the company. After their first year, Hertz reported a 50 per cent increase in net profits in 1976. When Simpson ends his football career at next season's close, he will hold at least 10 National Football League records, including most yards gained in a season — an amazing 2,003 in 1973. The 30-year-old Los Angeles resident now awaits his retirement ("Only 26 more games," he said after the Bills' most recent game — and loss) so he can devote full time to his acting. Simpson will leave football with many memories. His best moment, he said, came in 1967 when he scored the winning touchdown to give the University of Southern California a victory over arch-rival UCLA. "I'll never forget when we beat UCLA. Of course, that's the big game every year and that game cinched the Rose Bowl for us. Every college player wants to play in the Rose Bowl," he said. His worst moment? "My third year here (1971, when the Bills finished 1-13). That whole season was bad." Simpson has only two more goals in his football career. One is within reach, the other is hardly more than a dream. He hopes to overtake Jim Brown's all-time rushing record of 12,312 yards. However, a slow start caused by nagging injuries and a more pass-oriented Bills offense has thrown him off pace. "I'll be disappointed if I don't get it, but I'm not worrying about it. I've had so many other things," he said. Simpson thinks now that "it will take a miracle" for him to attain his other goal: to play in a Super Bowl.

Michigan returns to head of Top 20

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

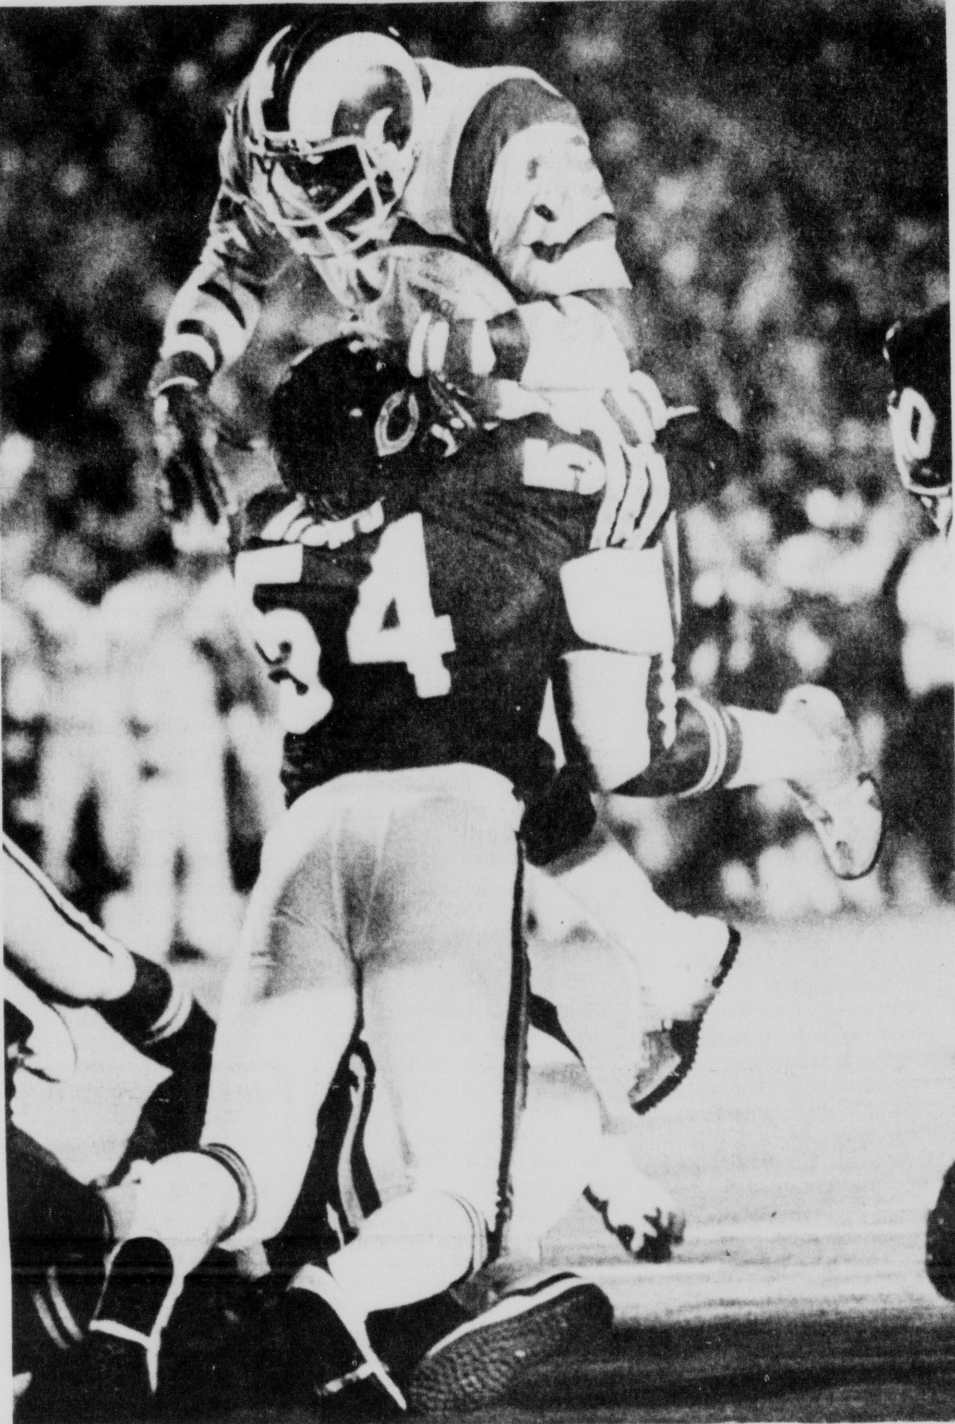

The Michigan Wolverines returned to the top of The Associated Press college football ratings today while last week's 1-2 teams, Southern California and Oklahoma, dropped to sixth and seventh. The Wolverines, voted out of the No. 1 position two weeks ago at the request of Coach Bo Schembechler, climbed back by defeating Michigan State 24-14 while Alabama stunned Southern Cal 21-20 and Texas knocked off Oklahoma 13-6. Michigan received 44 of 61 first-place votes and 1,180 of a possible 1,220 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. The surprising Texas Longhorns, back among the elite teams in Fred Akers' first season as their head coach, vaulted from fifth place into the runnerup spot with 15 first-place ballots and 1,100 points. Colorado, a 29-13 victor over Oklahoma State, jumped from sixth to third with one first-place vote and 775 points, followed by Alabama with 762 points. The Crimson Tide was tied for seventh a week ago. Despite a 46-0 rout of Purdue, Ohio State slipped from fourth to fifth with 735 points and the other first-place ballot. The Buckeyes were followed by Southern Cal with 659 points and Oklahoma with 657. Arkansas, tied for seventh last week, was eighth this time with 424 points after an idle weekend. Rounding out the Top Ten, just like last week, were Nebraska with 471 points and Penn State with 304. The Cornhuskers beat Kansas State 26-7 while the Nittany Lions shaded Utah State 16-7. Notre Dame, which also had the weekend off, remained in 11th place. Kentucky, a 23-7 winner over Mississippi State, rose from 16th to 12th. The rest of the Second Ten consisted of Texas A&M, Wisconsin, Texas Tech, Louisiana State, Pitt, Florida, Houston and California. Last week's Second Ten was Notre Dame, Texas A&M, Brigham Young, California, Pitt, Kentucky, Texas Tech, LSU, Wisconsin and Florida.

Houston rejoined the Top Twenty after a one-week absence even though the Cougars didn't play last weekend. They replaced the Brigham Young Cougars, who dropped out following a 24-19 loss to Oregon State.

Straight up

Chicago's Tom Hicks sends Rod Phillips of the Rams skyward and prevents him from crossing the goal line during third quarter play in Monday night's Bears-Rams game. Chicago upset Los Angeles 24-23. (UPI)

Bears win battle, war with victory over Rams

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago Bears Coach Jack Pardee called it "a well fought game in the trenches." Los Angeles Rams quarterback Joe Namath agreed with the battle analogy. "People get away with taking cheap shots and it becomes one big war out there," Namath said. "If you let people continue to get away with cheap shots, what happens to sportsmanship?" He accused linebacker Raymond Bryant of hitting him after a play in the waning moments of the Bears' 24-23 nationally televised National Football League upset victory on a rainy, windy Monday night that ended with both teams sporting 2-2 records. The officials slapped Bryant with a roughing-the-passer penalty and Rams right guard Dennis Harrah slugged him with a fist that brought Harrah a personal foul and ejection from the game. "I did not see the hit but I know it was a cheap shot. I could feel it. What else can I say?" said a remorseful Harrah. "I lost my head and retaliated when I should not have." Namath indicated that other Bears weren't bashful about getting in a tardy nudge or two either. "If the league would look at the films, they'd see what's going on out there," he said. "Next time we play them we'll beat them. We're not that kind of team." By the time Bryant bashed Namath in the chest, leaving him gasping for air, the Rams were straining to stay alive. Pat Haden replaced Namath and led Los Angeles to its final touchdown, a 26-yard strike to Dwight Scales that drew the Rams to within one point with 27 seconds to play. But the best quarterback on the field was a newly independent Bob Avellini, a third-year pro who is progressing week by week. Calling the plays for the first time this season, he said he was more confident. It showed.

He came up with scoring missiles of 70 and 72 yards to James Scott in the first half, which ended with the Rams ahead 16-14 on three Rafael Septien field goals and a 2-yard touchdown run by Lawrence McCutcheon. Avellini's 29-yard touchdown pass to Greg Latta in the fourth quarter put the Bears ahead 24-16. The Bears won with big plays, including a 51-yard scamper by Walter Payton, who gained 126 yards, to set up Latta's catch. But Avellini said that doesn't mean he's a more adventurous play-caller than the often conservative coaches. "We've tried passes before. We were fortunate enough to hit them tonight," said Avellini, who completed 11 of 17 passes for 219 yards. Namath, who went to the air 40 times, completed just 16 and had four intercepted. He said he had trouble with the bad weather and added, "Of course I played poorly. We lost."

Planes replace subways in Yank-Dodger rivalry

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees and the Los Angeles Dodgers, two franchises that divided baseball passions and World Series titles in the 1950s, square off in Game 1 of the 1977 World Series tonight. "This is exciting for baseball," enthused the Dodgers' Tom Lasorda, a National League pennant winner in his rookie managerial season in the big leagues. "Here we have the two great teams which over the years have been synonymous with major league baseball." Lasorda, who said he was cut from the Dodgers' 1955 championship team because of a young left-hander named Sandy Koufax, was highly emotional about the classic confrontation between the Yankees pinstripes and the Dodgers blue. Meanwhile, his managerial counterpart, Billy Martin, proclaimed there was no longer any special rivalry between the Bronx Bombers and the Dodgers, former tenants in the borough of Brooklyn. "The fifties were too long ago," said brash Billy, a hero of the Yankees' 1953 World Series win over the "Bums" of Brooklyn. "We used to travel by subway then. Now we go cross country in planes." There now is a lot more separating Los Angeles and New York besides 3,000 miles. The Dodgers, a team built from its minor league system, failed to enter the free-agent market. The Yankees, however, have been called the best team money can buy, adding free-agent plums Reggie Jackson and Don Gullett to last season's AL championship club that dropped four straight World Series games to the Cincinnati Reds. The Dodgers believe in the credo that the team that loves together plays together, while the Yankees play together on the field and argue about it in the clubhouse. "We built this team on togetherness, love and spirit," said Lasorda, who managed many of his players in the Dodgers chain before succeeding long-time skipper Walter Alton this season. "I love my players because they got me here." The Yankees' road to the AL pennant, won over Kansas City in the ninth inning of the fifth game for the second straight year, was a rocky one, highlighted by a near dugout brawl between Martin and Jackson, the near firing of Martin and personality clashes between Jackson and Yankees captain Thurman Munson. "It's a relief we won," said Jackson, benched in the final game against Kansas City but a starter in right field tonight. "That way I don't have to hear how Jackson failed. It makes things a lot more peaceful around here."

It looked for a little while like the Yankees weren't going to be allowed to drift peacefully into tonight's game when Jackson received an eight-page telegram, allegedly from owner George Steinbrenner, saying his contract was terminated because his attitude had been degrading to the team. After seriously scrutinizing the telegram for several minutes, Jackson was able to laugh it off as a hoax. Things could stay peaceful for the Yankees provided they quickly pick up their 100th World Series victory and follow that fast with three more triumphs. To that end, Martin will send left-hander Don Gullett to the mound against righthander Don Sutton tonight. Gullett, who ironically was Cincinnati's opening-game pitcher against the Yankees last year, will be making his first start since a shoulder ailment knocked him out in the second inning of Game 1 of the AL playoffs last Wednesday. At that time, Martin proclaimed Gullett was finished for the season. But Gullett, who said he threw pretty well on Saturday and Sunday, told Martin that he could pitch.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Blues made their final roster cuts Monday in preparation for their National Hockey League regular season opener against the Pittsburgh Penguins Wednesday night. Defenseman Jamie Masters was reassigned to the Salt Lake Golden Eagles of the Central Hockey League, the club said. Floyd Thomson, called up to replace retiring left winger Chuck Leffley, also was returned to the Blues' Central League affiliate.

Heisman race tightens

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Is swift Terry Miller really the best running back in the country. Or is Earl Campbell the most likely candidate for the coveted Heisman Trophy? And what about a couple of newcomers named I.M. Hipp and James Mayberry? Barry Switzer of Oklahoma raised the question Monday when, after the Sooners' 13-6 loss to arch-rival Texas, he indicated Campbell, the Longhorns' bruising ball-carrier, was the best he's seen. "I think they're two of the greatest backs in the country," Switzer said of Miller, the Oklahoma State runner, and Campbell Monday via telephone to sportswriters at the Big Eight office. "Miller has tremendous speed, but Campbell has strength and balance. Two men can't bring him down," said the Sooner boss, who watched Campbell run for a 24-yard touchdown. "Miller, you just can't catch him. But Campbell is just unbelievable the way he fights off tackles." Jim Stanley, whose Oklahoma State team lost to Colorado, 29-13, last Saturday despite a 139-yard performance by Miller, also put in a couple of good words for the pair. "Earl Campbell is certainly a candidate (for the Heisman Trophy)," said Stanley. "But it's my opinion that Terry Miller can do more things." Neither is without his competitors in Midlands football, as Nebraska and Colorado each boast sturdy ball-carriers. "I.M. Hipp was the difference," said Coach Ellis Rainsberger in reviewing Kansas State's 26-9 loss Saturday to Nebraska and touchdown rambles of 66 and 80 yards.

S-C's Giokaris favors defense

Smith-Cotton's Alan Giokaris considers the first game of the season against Springfield Central his best so far.

"The first game was my best I guess. The thing I liked about it was that the offensive line played well that night. On defense I had a quarterback sack and caused a fumble on a pitch. I felt like I did pretty good in the Marshall game too."

A senior, Giokaris starts for the Tigers at offensive guard and defensive end.

"I like defense best, but I try not to be too strong to one side. There's a lot of responsibility at defensive end, and I like the challenge of handling that responsibility."

Giokaris is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Giokaris, 1123 West Seventh. He lettered last year in football, and also lettered in baseball.

"I guess its the enthusiasm that I like in football. It's a place where you can let your aggressions out."

Only Campbell escaped OU's defensive grasp

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer said Monday that his team did just what it set out to do against Texas, stop the high-scoring Longhorn offense.

And, he said, they did, all except for Earl Campbell.

"I felt going into the game that we would stop the Texas offense. I knew it, our coaches knew it and I told people close to me that we would do it. And, we did," he said.

"Texas gained 152 yards rushing and only nine first downs. They crossed our 40-yard line once in the entire game. We forced them into third-down situations 12 times and they converted only once.

"If you had told Texas going into the game that they would get 150 yards, only nine first downs and cross the 40 only once and throw in that we would fumble only once, early in the game, and then tell them they would win, they'd have laughed at you.

"And, if you had told me we would do that to them and lose, I'd said no way. But that's football."

Switzer said the defense played "its best game all year."

"George Cumby (linebacker) played outstanding," he said. "He's the type of player I thought he would become."

Pitching-poor Yanks...

NEW YORK (AP) — From the back of a crowd of newsmen, someone asked Yankees Manager Billy Martin if he needed another starting pitcher.

"We'll be all right," said Martin, his eyes fixed on the carpet. Then he looked up. "Hey, Tommy, how you doing? Damn. I could use you right now."

The probing questioner was none other than Tom Seaver, ace of the Cincinnati Reds and tonight a voice in the broadcasting booth when ABC gets its first crack at the World Series.

The truth is Martin could use Seaver or almost any other big league starter. His pitching staff, by reputation one of the best in baseball, seems to be now held together by one huge roll of medical tape.

...could have had Sutton

NEW YORK (AP) — With all the millions the New York Yankees have been throwing around, a mere $13,000 was all that separated them from Don Sutton.

"They only offered me $2,000 as a bonus, and I didn't think that was enough," says Sutton, recalling his modest baseball beginnings. "I wanted $15,000."

So Sutton instead went westward as a young man and signed with the Los Angeles Dodgers. He got his $15,000, and tonight he gets even more than he ever dreamed of — a baseball season. But Sutton surely wants the ball as much as anyone else.

"I think it would be easier for me to open than to just sit over there on the bench and watch it," said Sutton.

Possibly no one would enjoy it more than Sutton, either.

"It's fun," he says.

"Playoffs and World Series are fun. I think we worked too hard to get here not to be able to enjoy one of the greatest spectacles in sports."

CINCINNATI (AP) — A member of the Cincinnati Stingers hockey team was detained for 2½ hours by Czechoslovakian police during a recent preseason tour by the World Hockey Association club.

Dennis Abgrall, a 24-year-old right wing, unknowingly photographed a police station while sightseeing in Prague. He said the incident began when he photographed four policemen emerging from a small car.

"They began eyeing me and I started walking away," said Abgrall.

Once taken into custody, his troubles compounded. None of the police spoke English. His style of dress — trench coat, sun glasses and tennis shoes — didn't ease their suspicion. And his passport was back at the hotel where the team was staying.

Hours later, an interpreter hired by the team cleared up the misunderstanding. In the meantime, Abgrall passed around team decals to the curious policemen.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Here is a problem hand composed by Eddy Kantar, one of our greatest players. Try to avoid looking at the East-West hands until you have planned your entire play starting at trick four. West starts out by playing ace-king and a third heart. You win in your own hand and must plan the play. You start by assuming that West will hold both black kings. He really needs them to have an opening bid. Maybe this doesn't worry you and it won't unless it turns out that West holds three trumps and just one diamond. Can you guard against that unpleasant possibility? You can, but it requires considerable care. You start by cashing your ace of clubs and ruffing the jack. Now if you stop thinking and just lead dummy's jack of spades the hand will collapse. West will take his king and lead a diamond. You won't be able to shut out his 10 of trumps. So you cash one high diamond before leading that jack of spades and nothing can touch you.

ASK THE JACOBYs

A Texas reader wants to know what happens when the contract is three hearts. Declarer makes nine tricks but is entitled to two more because of the revoke. Does he make game?

We have answered this question several times before. Penalty tricks only count below the line if they help declarer make his contract. Otherwise, they are simply scored as overtricks. Thus, this declarer gets 60 points above the line.

(Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The Jacobys will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

Ann Landers

Closed mind nailed shut

Dear Ann Landers: This is for that nutty housewife in Dallas who wrote to say how hard she works just "raising a family." The truth is that the American housewife is a glorified parasite. She does nothing but amuse herself 95 per cent of the time.

I wonder if you know how many hours the "average home-bound slave" spends looking at TV, yakking on the telephone, kaffee-klatching with neighbors and reading trashy magazines.

It takes only a minute to change a diaper. The cooking can't require more than half an hour for supper. Most husbands don't come home for lunch any more. Laundry takes about an hour a week — and the machines do the work. So they clean the house (maybe) and wash a floor or two. This uses up an hour at the most. Big deal.

The real heroines are the women who run the house and hold down an eight-hour job besides. I have a lot of respect for them. They also seem to have independent, well-behaved kids who know how to do things for themselves. What's more, their husbands do less running around and their marriages seem to be working.

So let's hear it for the little lady who can run a home and help her overworked husband pay the bills, which are staggering these days. Thumbs down on the lazy complainers who call themselves "homemakers" when in reality they are "freeloaders." — Seen It All

Dear Seen It: Since your mind is not only closed but nailed shut, I wouldn't attempt to point out the foolishness of some of your statements. You make no distinction between the woman who has a single child and one who has six — and when you say cleaning the house and washing a floor or two takes an hour at the most — oh, well, what's the use?

I've let you have your say because this column represents everybody's point of view, but since it's MY column, I reserve the right to have the last word. And my word to you is BULL-FEATHERS, Mister.

Dear Ann Landers: You are probably sick of letters about toilet paper by this time but I hope you will print one more. It should put an end to the hassling once and for all.

My husband works for a paper company. They sell the best known brand of toilet paper in the country. (I won't name it because I know you won't print it.) When he read all those letters from people who were explaining the "proper" way to put the roll on the dispenser, he laughed and said, "The correct way is so obvious I don't know how people can miss it." Then he pointed out that the fancier toilet tissue is embossed with designs and color. It is made so the paper comes over the top and rolls down on the outside — not to the wall. If placed the other way, the design would not show. It would be the same as hanging your printed draperies with the pattern to the window and the lining on the outside. NOW do you understand? — Sign Me Right Side Up

Dear Right: Gotcha. And this is the last letter I am printing on the subject, so if anyone has anything more to say — tell it to somebody else.

It's not always easy to recognize love, especially the first time around. Acquaint yourself with the guidelines. Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Difference." For a copy, mail 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611. c.1977 Field Enterprises, Inc.

At wit's end Teenagers

By ERMA BOMBECK

It was either the Pope ... or maybe one of the Hollywood Squares ... who said that raising teenagers is the happiest part of your married life.

I don't know how rumors like that get started.

If I were any happier, they'd take away my blunt scissors and the water glass in my bathroom before I hurt myself.

At a gathering of the neighbors a few weeks ago, Lillian said, "You are all so lucky to have teenagers who drive. I can hardly wait. You have no idea how much of my time I spend running the kids around the car."

No one said anything, but I caught a glimpse of Helen. I looked at Maxine as she whose daughter had put up two broomsticks in front of the house to practice parallel parking and was cited for speeding — in reverse.

There was Midge, whose son pulled their station wagon into the garage, left it in neutral, closed the garage door and couldn't get the door open again when it rolled back into the lock.

There was Barbara, whose teenager had 17 temporary permits and on his last try when he ran over the curb and the inspector's foot asked, "Does this mean I don't get my license?"

Lillian prattled on, "You don't know how I envy all of you with teenagers who eat well. My children are so finicky they won't eat anything."

I looked at Maxine as she wistfully remembered getting a court order to remove her son, "Jaws," from in front of the refrigerator where he had not moved in three months.

I thought I saw Reba wince as she recalled the time she had us over for bridge and her son had eaten two pounds of assorted mints, three pounds of cashews, a three-quart tuna casserole and four straw coasters shaped like strawberries.

"Well, only a few more years," Lillian chirped, "and I won't need a babysitter. I'll be like the rest of you and have one who lives in." I smiled wilyly remembering last New Year's Eve when my daughter met me at the door with her hand computer and said stiffly, "No personal checks, please."

"I think raising teenagers must be the happiest part of your married life," said Lillian.

Our heads jerked up. I got Lillian out of there quickly ... for her own safety.

Smoking vs. alcoholism

Dear Dr. Lamb — I just read your column about the lady who likes to smoke and I have some additional comments that I feel from deep inside my conscience.

After smoking since I was 12 years old I've grown increasingly dependent on my vice. I also resent the comments made by people that it's a nasty habit and offends people socially. But may I ask why everyone makes such a big deal of smoking and completely ignores those who drink themselves into a stupor every night because they want to relax?

I feel resentful toward people when they drink and become different from the persons they really are! They become obnoxious, mouthy and care less about anyone's feelings and there are those who suddenly become quiet and are about as much company as a brick wall.

They drive and cause many accidents that in many cases involve innocent people and inconvenience people by "passing out" and having to be carried out. Thanks, but if there's a choice, I'll take smoking. It's much less hazardous.

Dear Reader — Funny, but I had an idea that you may have had someone close to you in mind when you were complaining about the effects of drinking on the personality.

There is no reason why you need to choose between two bad habits. I don't recommend drinking instead of smoking and I don't recommend smoking instead of drinking. My advice is don't do either.

Alcoholism is a severe problem. Did you know cirrhosis of the liver is the fourth common cause of death in American men between the ages of 35 and 54 and that 60 per cent of these liver deaths are caused by alcoholism? It's true. It is just another example of how people affect their own health, as opposed to depending upon the doctor to provide life and health everlasting regardless of what they do.

No, I am not going to endorse your bad habit but I will say that drinking irresponsibly is also hazardous to your health. I would concur that a warning label should be on every beverage containing alcohol. It is a poison. It does destroy health, personality and families.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-4, Alcohol, Whiskey, Gin, Vodka, Rum, Wine, Beer. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. It will give you a lot more information on how alcohol is hazardous to your health. You might be wise to share its content with some of those in your life who use too much alcohol.

There are a lot of people who both drink to excess and smoke. The combination is like playing Russian roulette with two chambers of the revolver instead of just one.

Incidentally it is not true that alcohol relaxes a person. It may be a social lubricant for some people but it is a depressant or an anesthetic. The person may not feel his anxiety or tension but he has not relieved it with alcohol. He has only numbed his senses. It is not a good tranquilizer. A much better and more healthy tranquilizer is exercise. A good walk, a swim, or participation in some sport you enjoy is much more relaxing and much better for a person's health. A wife can help in this area by planning family activities at the end of the day that provides healthy exercise.

'Gang of Four' preoccupies the Chinese

PEKING (AP) — Wherever visitors go today in China — newspaper office, middle school, factory, commune, university, fishing village — the one thing they are certain to hear is an attack on the "Gang of Four."

It is a national preoccupation.

In a 16-day visit, a group of Associated Press executives and directors heard the purged radical leaders blamed for almost every conceivable setback China suffered in recent years, but particularly in the 13 months since the death of Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

The format soon became familiar. Our host — perhaps the leader of a factory — would outline briefly what the factory makes, how large it is and so on. Then, quickly, a reference to how the workers are "deepening the criticism" of the radicals and trying to repair the damage done by their supporters.

The Gang of Four, now apparently under a form of house arrest, were Chiang Ching, Mao's widow; Wang Hung-wen, former party vice chairman; Yao Wen-yuan, a former Politburo member, and former Vice Premier Chang Chun-chiao.

These are a few of the things we heard them blamed for:

— Excessive earthquake damage last year, because their interference retarded research into earthquake prediction.

— Curtailed output at the Peking Arts and Crafts Factory, where they convinced some workers that making vases and other traditional objects was a waste of time.

— Poisoning the minds of workers and students with the idea that there was no need to learn trades or work hard and that all they needed to do was to study Mao.

The list goes on and on. It is difficult to envision an American counterpart to this aspect of the Chinese experience.

It had been reported in the Western press that Mao's successor, Chairman Hua Kuofeng, and the 11th Party Congress in August ordered the criticism campaign.

But the scope of it, and the intensity with which China's leaders are pressing it, come clear only when one hears it day after day at stop after stop through the length of China.

Immediately after Mao's death in September 1976, the radicals apparently made their move to succeed him. Reports from the limited number of Western correspondents in China, and even reports carried by the controlled Chinese media, told of armed clashes in some of China's cities between Hua's supporters and those of the Gang of Four.

The nature of the dispute between them is complex. Mao's widow and her allies claimed to be following Mao's true line. They stressed Mao's thoughts while they accused the other side of stressing material production, of diluting the master's teachings.

Hua's side accused the radicals of trying to create chaos so that with the government unable to cope, the radicals could take over. And Hua's side, too, covered itself with Mao's mantle, saying that what they were doing was consistent with Mao.

Last October, a month after Mao's death, Hua moved, arresting the gang and setting the stage for the criticism campaign.

The Kangaroo rat may cover six feet in a single leap.
